

Committee and Work Groups

Committees will have a more defined structure (e.g., a chairperson, charter, government policies) and will typically hold some number of regular meetings during the year.

Work groups are teams of members who share the responsibility for getting some tasks assigned and completed and self organize in the ways that best serve the need.

Signing up for a committee or work group means that you are interested to be part of the conversation and are willing to take on some responsibilities. It does not lock you into a specific role or level of commitment.
